THE LEGISLATURE

by Chick Evans

With the "big" bills building up pressure for debate and the work of the joint standing committees nearing completion, the 98th Legislature is about to go into morning and afternoon sessions.

On the way to setting a new record for length, this session is slated to see more floor action in its 18th week, (April 30 through May 3) than in all the preceding weeks combined.

Of major interest for the days immediately ahead are the Education bill and the proposed $24-million bond issue. The first will have much going in the House and there will be much heated discussion over several prospective amendments. The second is certain to raise another storm, with strong feelings already expressed about the proposed construction from Portland to Brunswick and the demands for consideration from coastal Route 1 and Aroostook County.

Appropriation Bill. The general fund appropriation bill is out and has had its first readings in the Senate without a fight. Carrying the endorsement of the Appropriations Committee, which has been holding hearings for 16 weeks, it calls for a two-year expenditure of $53,280,249, or about $3-million more than was proposed in January by Gov. Muskie. Approximately that amount is anticipated in the form of increased revenue estimates, with $2½-million figured to accrue from the sales tax at its present rate of two percent.

The governor's supplemental appropriation bill calling for $15,803,977 was still unreported. This measure could not pass without increased revenue to support it. The governor has proposed a 50 percent sales tax increase for the purpose, with domestic water, gas and electricity exempted.

Major departments had asked the governor and the Legislature to appropriate some $91-million for general fund purposes. The actual appropriations in 1955 were some $75,600,000.

Of the $3-million increase, $2½-million is for two departments, Education and State Police. Few and relatively unimportant reductions from the governor's proposals were made. The Committee proposed a total of $22,832,677 for the Education Dept., most of it earmarked for the five state teacher training institutions.

No increases in state subsidies were proposed to cities and towns, the University of Maine, or the Vocational-Technical Institute. Increases in those appropriations were included in the governor's supplemental budget, yet to be reported.

More funds are recommended for institutions, industrial development, and health and welfare. The State Police recommendation is for $1,427,802, an increase of $1,066,636 over the governor's budget, tied to the pending highway construction program under which the general fund would supply 50 percent rather than the present 10 percent of Police expenses.

Education. The controversial Jacobs Report bill got further delay in the House Wednesday when it was rebilled over the objection of Rep Jesse P Fuller (R-South Portland), House Chairman of the Education Committee. It had been expected that full-dress debate on the matter would come this week. Fuller asked for thorough discussion on several amendments he had ready, but after one was introduced, Rep John T Quinn (R-Bangor) moved to table until Tuesday, arguing that the measure and its amendments were so complex that more time for study was needed. With a vote of 74-35 the House finally agreed with Quinn, but not before a complicated parliamentary maze that was precipitated by Majority Leader James C Totman's (R-Bangor) effort to give top priority to debate on Tuesday's calendar.

Liquor "Agency" Stores. If the unfavorable majority report of the Liquor Control Committee is accepted, the idea of Liquor Commission agency stores in towns too small to support a regular Commission store is dead. Nine of the 13 members of the Committee were opposed, with only the chairman, Sen Miles F Carpenter (R-Skowhegan) supporting the Liquor Commission-requested proposal. In submitting a minority favorable report, Carpenter offered an amendment taking from the Commission the authority to determine where such agency stores would be located. Instead, the biennial local option ballot would permit voters to decide locally.

The majority of the Liquor Committee was also opposed to Rep Mabel W Burnham's (R-Kittery) measure to penalize anyone selling non-alcoholic "near beer" to minors. The injunction would apply to any production bearing the impression of alcoholic content. Rep Frank M. Pierce (R-Buckport) tabled the bill in the House.

Gasoline Dealers. The Business Legislation Committee recorded opposition to three bills affecting gasoline dealers. Rep William O Karles' (R-South Portland) measure would apply a fine of $50 to $500 to wholesalers who made isolated retail sales at a discount in competition with retailers; Sen Norman K Ferguson's (R-Oxford) bill would levy a fine up to $1,000 against a retail motor fuel merchant who, intending to beat his

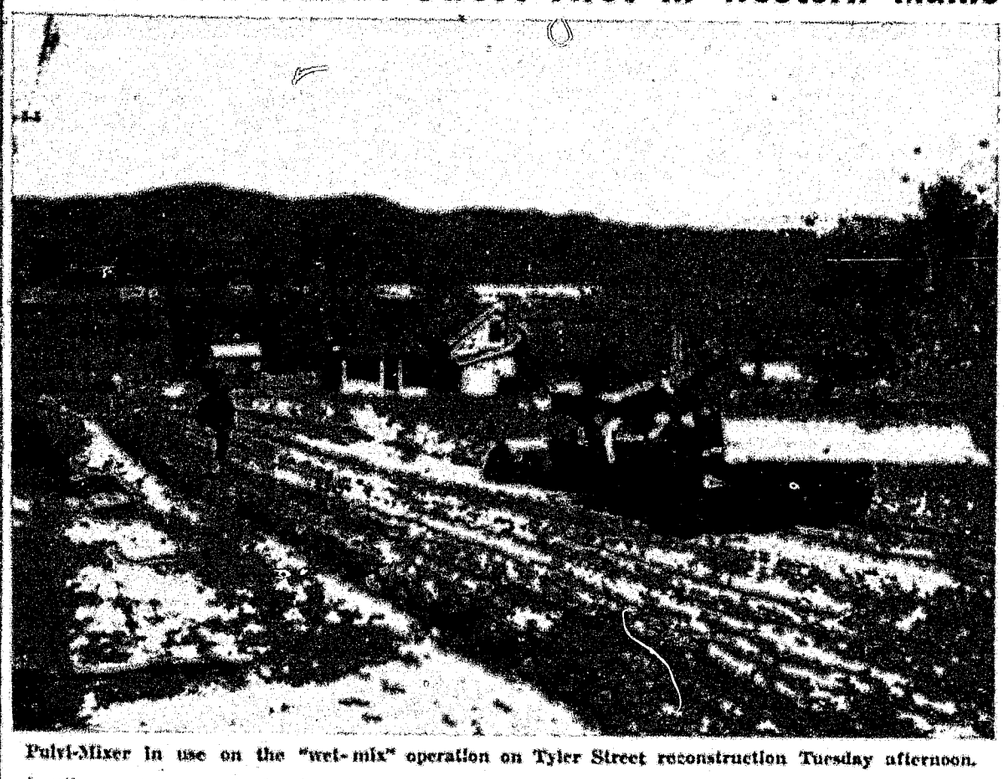
Bethel's Soil-Cement Street First in Western Maine



Pulvi-Mixer in use on the "wet-mix" operation on Tyler Street reconstruction Tuesday afternoon.

A soil-cement pavement—first to be constructed in Oxford County—was placed Tuesday on Bethel's Tyler Street, running from Chapman to Vernon Streets. The 1760 square yard project (800 by 20 feet) was carried out under the planning of Town Manager O T Rozelle and the immediate supervision of Road Foreman Robert York. An interested observer was Harold L Bean, Bethel's new town manager, who arrived Monday and takes over officially on May 6 when Mr Rozelle assumes new duties with the State Bureau of Taxation.

One of those most interested in the reconstruction was Fritz J Tyler, for whom the street was named. Mr Tyler has long been a booster of this section of the village, having built there and sold building lots some 35 years ago. A "dead-end" street for years, it was finally extended to Vernon Street and the unexpected amount of travel there were out the original surfacing in a few years.

Though new to Bethel and Oxford County, soil-cement stabilization is far beyond the experimental stage with nearly 200 million square yards of soil-cement roads, streets, airports and parking lots having been built in the United States since the first such project in 1935. Sliced into the width of Tyler Street and placed end-to-end, it would make for a road reaching more than halfway around the earth. Maine has used nearly a million square yards of soil-cement, about 800,000 of which was placed by the government in World War II when speedy but durable airport construction was so essential.

The nearest soil-cement street to Bethel is at Auburn where it was employed with amazing success in 1955 to overcome a perennial spring "breakup" situation. Despite daily gross-loads up to 48,000 pounds, which had been raising havoc with Auburn streets during spring thaws, the Auburn soil-cement project has come through two winters in flawless fashion. The Maine State Highway Department built in 1956 the longest soil-cement project in New England, a 4300,000 Federal Aid Secondary stretch on Route 130 at Bristol, subject to a heavy vacation-flow of traffic as the gateway to the Pemaquid resort area.

In modernizing Tyler Street Town Manager Rozelle not only sought a permanent type of low-cost pavement but, re-designed the street to a pattern that should make it adequate for a number of decades. From the old and varying widths of 12 to 16 feet, the street has been widened to 20 feet, straightened, and its irregular dips removed. The new pavement is 20 feet wide with three foot shoulders.

Simply expressed, soil-cement is an intimate mixture of pulverized soil and measured amounts of port-

Ideas from other editors

From the Dove Creek Press, Dove Creek, Colorado: Almost all of us spend some part of our day with advertising . . . watching TV, listening to radio, reading newspapers, magazines and billboards. We are constantly aware of products and services via advertising. But how, actually, does advertising benefit you and me? What does it do for us and what is our part in it?

Advertising provides information . . . it tells us where we can purchase the things we want and how much our purchase will cost. From the comfort of our living room, we can compare brands and prices, learn of a product's durability, new features and cost of operation. So when we go out to shop, we are the best prepared shoppers in the world with the widest choice of brands.

Advertising is a chain reaction that stimulates demand and creates progress. By spreading the story of a new or better product, a market is created for which manufacturers compete. Cheaper, more efficient production methods are developed and prices go down. In the long run, the consumer is the one who profits most.

Every time advertising helps to make a sale, it puts money in action. The customer, the salesman, the manufacturer, the employees, all share in part from a sale advertising has stimulated. Consciously . . . as a reader of ads and a consumer . . . and unconsciously . . . working at our daily jobs . . . we are part of advertising."

From the Canton Independent-Sentinel, Canton, Penna.: A national weekly newspaper recently reported on the trend of big business to move its new plants into smaller towns. The report was highly enlightening.

One firm which had operated in a large metropolitan area for half a century has recently erected plants in two small communities and the company heads report that the concern is delighted with the results.

In the first place, he said, the business had been virtually unknown in the large city and workers were not in touch with the needs of people in smaller towns, who used the product manufactured. In the small towns, where the two new plants were opened, citizens were eager to have the new plants located in their community and raised money for the building, on a loan basis, and took a great interest in the business enterprise. They were happy, contented, good workers and had the interest of the business at heart.

Economic Highlights . . . . .

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

There is no doubt that the burden of taxation has become the overriding domestic problem in this country and that the problem is dominating the thinking of the American people. Editorial mailbags testify to that fact.

The reason is found in the opening sentence of an article on taxation by Dr F A Harper, which appears in the April issue of The Freeman: "Taxes are now taking your earnings for almost twenty minutes out of each hour of work if you are a typical United States citizen." Then Dr Harper goes into some deeper aspect of the significance of taxes aspects which have to do with their influence on the liberty of the people.

He considers this definition: "Taxes are the economic burden we impose upon one another by means of force through government, in attempting to deal with those human differences which we refuse to tolerate. They are the expense incurred when some person is to be ruled or change the conduct of other persons by means of the government as a monopoly agent of force." This matter of human differences is at the heart of that definition. If all people were alike, there would hardly be any need for government at all, anyway. But would there really be any need for what everyone else approved? It is two people are really alike, either physically or mentally, and to a great many degrees, as we all know, the differences are enormous. Hence government—and hence taxes.

The problem as Dr Harper puts it, is to "learn how to deal with these human differences so that they fructify rather than sterilize attainment." That goal illustrates a danger that is inherent in the institution of government—and in the tax systems that government must have. For, to quote him again, "In a completely governed society everything that is not compulsory is forbidden." In other words a completely authoritarian government knows no limit on its powers whatsoever. These restraints are felt everywhere, and they apply to what is good in society and the individual as well as to what is bad.

Dr Harper, of course does not believe that we have that kind of government. But he does believe we have been moving in that direction primarily because we have gone farther and farther, through the agency of government, to attempt to rid society of many human differences and the cost, which is paid in taxes, has risen correspondingly.

He traces the trend of taxation in this country over many years. His analysis shows that the proportion of our productive effort which has been absorbed in the attempt to control the actions of one another" has grown fabulously and dangerously." And that is why taxes today take about twenty minutes out of each hour of work.

Dr Harper comes to his point with two simple but far-reaching questions: Has the average person in the United States become so much more current and evil than the Spirit that we must spend one-third of our time controlling each other" than the present generation requires six times as much governing as their grandparents and great grandparents did?" It is obvious that he feels the answer to these questions are No and that our failure to provide the right answers is a primary reason for our current tax problem.

REGULATION GOES WITH REGIMENTATION

A strong anti-subsidy bill by Rep. Paul A. Fountain, former Research Director of the Education Committee of the House of Representatives, failed to receive a majority of votes in the House of Representatives on Friday, March 29.

One factor in this defeat is that many are by no means convinced that the Administration has the best interests of the people at heart. Many were only too well aware that the Federal Government has spent a large share of its national income on projects that may other country of record.

Another factor is that the tax dollar shortage gives worse and worse. The teacher-pupil ratio in 1900 was one to 30; in 1930 it was one to 24 and in 1956 it was one to 26.6. He adds. Much of the teacher shortage is due to inefficient use of the available tax dollars.

Another failure and an extremely important one today is that the conservative look the fiscal capacity to meet school needs, so the federal government must step in to support Mr Freeman quotes the Education Committee with which he was connected as saying no state is unable to support an adequate school system, and that federal aid is not necessary.

Finally Mr Freeman points out that if the government is going to give aid for schools, it is ultimately going to run them. As a U S Supreme Court decision said in 1954 "It is hardly safe of due process for the government to regulate that which it subsidizes."

Converting Hitler's Hide-Out

In reading something in the newspaper the other day that thrilled me. It stated that twenty years ago, Hitler and his staff drew up a blue-print for a hide-out, high in the Alps, in the little village of Berchtesgaden.

Remember how, throughout the war, that word came to mean the inner strong-hold of evil?

But, as my Salvation Army father used to say, "The devil always overshoots the mark." Hitler did just that, and his whole structure of iniquity fell about him.

But today, young American GI's are using that mountain retreat, at Berchtesgaden, for religious meditation. It has become a place to escape from war, and preparation for war, and to pray and cultivate the riches of the spirit.

This religious retreat, sponsored by the United States Army, and conducted by the Chaplains' Corps is an experiment unique in military history. It has been an overwhelming success.

Every morning, at Berchtesgaden, there is a period of Bible study, group discussions, and prayer. Each evening, there is a religious movie and a program of worship.

What a marvelous conversion, from the core of Hitler's spider web of infamy, to a beauty spot for the enrichment of men's lives and the blessing of all.

All evil is perverted good. Are there any dark corners in your own soul, still given over to evil, which should be used for the service of God?

WASHINGTON Quiz

Q—Are members of the Electoral College required to vote for their party nominee?

A—While it is a long-standing custom that members of the College vote for their party's nominee, thus giving all their state's electoral votes to him, the constitution does not require that they do so. The only constitutional requirement is that at least one of the men the electors choose for the offices of President and Vice President shall not be an inhabitant of the same state as they are—which means that an elector from California, for instance, could not give his vote for both offices to candidates from his native state.

Q—Did President William H. Harrison serve half of his term?

A—No. Harrison died one month after his inauguration, on April 4, 1841 and was succeeded in office by Vice President Millard Fillmore.

Q—When was the Department of Defense created?

A—On Sept. 18, 1947, the Department of the Navy, Department of the Air Force and Department of the Army into a single executive department.

Q—How large is the Pentagon?

A—The Pentagon covers 34 acres on the Virginia side of the Potomac River. It is 5 stories high and consists of 5 rings of buildings connected by 10 corridors. About 30,000 persons—70 per cent of them civilians—work here.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, May 2

Read Matthew 27:50-56.

The curtain of the temple was torn in two. (Matthew 27:51, RSV).

WHEN Jesus said, "It is finished," the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. The holy of holies was no more, the ceremonial law of Moses of no effect. Instead, grace now abounds to him who believes in the Son of man and Son of God who died on the cross. Because of His death and resurrection, fear has given way to faith in love and in the power of the new birth.

On the cross, Jesus exemplified the new gospel — forgiveness and love, reassurance and help, fellowship and stewardship, pain and prayer, earnestness and faith, vision and victory, and surrender and obedience.

Thus the power of sin has been broken. To him who accepts Christ as Lord and Saviour, Christ becomes alive in him. To him Christ becomes a Friend and a Brother, faithful unto the end. The believer himself becomes a priest, a son, and an heir of life eternal—both here and hereafter.

Prayer

O Lord, destroy the curtain of sin which separates us from Thee. So may we always behold Thy loving face. Teach us to love Thee rather than to fear Thee, to trust and obey our Lord and Saviour. In His name. Amen.

GOVERNOR'S HIGHWAY SAFETY COM. SAYS KNOW AND OBEY TRAFFIC LAWS

"There is no place where religion is more practical than behind the wheel of a car"

This statement was made today by our Governor's Committee on Highway Safety as it stressed the Know and Obey Traffic Laws program which is being emphasized this month.

"The problem of traffic accidents is not merely a technical problem of engineering, licensing and enforcement," the committee pointed out. "Basically, it is a human problem. Accidents are caused by drivers, not by automobiles.

All the advances made in automotive design, better and safer streets and highways, and new techniques and devices for efficient traffic movement will not solve the traffic problem until drivers really become aware of, and accept, their moral and social obligation behind the wheel of a car.

"Deliberate or careless violations of a traffic law or sign, or of the dictates of common sense or courtesy, before the 'accident' factor and of traffic accidents. Such actions place the burden of guilt upon the negligent driver.

"It is time for all persons who profess any religious faith to accept their moral responsibilities in helping to prevent traffic accidents," the committee added.

"Anger, impatience, selfishness, these have no place on the road. They lead to accidents and often to death. Love, courtesy and consideration, on the other hand, will reduce traffic accidents," concluded the safety committee.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

REV. ROBERT H. HARTER

RESURRECTION

Tolstoy wrote a book about a high-born young Russian who betrayed the sweetheart of his childhood. But there came an awakening to him and henceforth he strove to save a broken woman condemned to Siberia and dedicated his life to the poor of Russia. And Tolstoy called the book Resurrection.

And resurrection it was in the life of the man of whom the story tells. To make a black heart white is resurrection. Such is the blessed case when a lecherous man of a thousand sins becomes a Christian gentleman through faith in the risen Lord. It was resurrection that made the Scarlet Letter of Hawthorne's story at last to shine on a fold noble no longer as the brand of shame but as the emblem of honor and love.

So, while we may rejoice in the hope of the after life and of reunion beyond the grave, when we shall see "those angel faces smile, which we have loved long since and lost awhile," the primary fact of the Easter morn is resurrection from sin.

Thus, while men come from every quarter before the great white throne, without the shadow of sense, the greatest spectacle will be that of the redeemed, who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb, joining in his praise, led by the four and twenty elders, casting down their golden crowns around the glassy sea.

TAXPAYERS SHOULD KEEP RECORDS AND COPIES OF INCOME TAX RETURNS

A reminder to Federal income taxpayers to retain their copies of returns filed in the recently closed tax filing period has been issued by District Director Whitney L. Wheeler of the Augusta office of the Internal Revenue Service. Records of income and expense used in preparation of the return also should be kept, he said.

"Tax records must be retained for at least three years from the deadline date, April 15" Mr Wheeler said. "There is always the possibility that a taxpayer may be called upon to furnish proof of his income and deductions. Keeping copies of returns and records will help both him and the revenue service in such cases.

"Beyond this requirement, taxpayers should find that retention of their copies of returns will help them in filing next year, especially if there is no major change in their financial status. In addition, the Revenue Service urges that all records of 1957 expenditures (cancelled checks, receipts, notations of contributions, state and local taxes, interest payments and other deductible items) be retained for reference in computing 1957 Federal returns."

Mr Wheeler pointed out that district and local offices of the revenue service are glad to provide information throughout the year.

"All we ask is that the taxpayer have the facts and figures relating to his problem correctly in mind" Mr Wheeler said match his weight with a check...

join the fight against cancer in children!

Wonderful, isn't he? Sometimes when you're alone, you dream a little. You like to imagine him all grown up. A doctor perhaps. Or a lawyer. Or (you smile at yourself, but it could happen) maybe even President...

What are his chances? Better... if we stamp out cancer. Because cancer doesn't care about tomorrow. Last year, 4,000 children were killed by cancer. 4,000 tomorrows were wiped out...by a disease man hasn't conquered yet!

How can you help? What can you do to help make his future secure? You can do so much...so easily! You can send a nice fat check to the American Cancer Society. You can help raise every dollar we need for our greatest weapon: research. Do it today. Who knows? Sooner than we think...we may strike cancer from his future forever!

Mail your contribution to "Cancer," in care of your local Post Office.

"THE LIVING SYMBOL"

Opener: The American Legion Auxiliary, Prepared by Rosalie Pettingell

"The crepe paper poppy you wear over your heart this May day of remembrance may be ill-fashioned and carelessly made Treasure it the more because it represents the first faltering steps on the road back to sanity of a man who was willing to give his life so that you and I could keep ours In many cases he had a family for which he was responsible before he offered his greatest gift to his country. He worried about his family and its future as he crawled through mud and blood and water and cold. The American Legion Auxiliary remembers the sacrifices of the past in the present and the most crucial consideration for every single poppy made The men who return the emotion again from going and by supplying the aid and relief which Congress provides from the government and in our state. There is no ugly word in connection with these disabled defenders and they are a proud group. The disabled veteran does not feel that he is begging support but with good reason.

Are we the ungrateful in the proud sense of today that we forget the past? Let the gains and losses of accomplishment be our reminder."

BETHEL VILLAGE SCHOOLS ANNUAL SPRING CONCERT TO BE HELD MAY 10

The annual spring concert of the Bethel Village Schools will take place Friday evening, May 10, at 8 p. m. in the William Bingham Gymnasium. The concert will show this year's group work in music. It will begin with the increased Crescent Park School Band. The combined grades of the Primary Department (3d Gr.) will sing two dance numbers, featuring also a few dancers and an accompanying rhythm band. The combined fourth grades will sing unaccompanied and in unison, the combined fifth grades will bring one two-part harmony song and another one in unison, while the combined sixth grades will introduce three-part harmony sung with piano accompaniment. The seventh grades will sing two Stephen Foster songs, in two part harmony, with student accompanist (Nancy Cole), and the eighth Grade Girls Glee Club, also with Nancy Cole at the piano, will bring three more complicated numbers.

The vocal selections will be interspersed with instrumental numbers. This year's crop of brass beginners from among them: Al Grover, Charles Mills, Maynard Morgan and Walter), our saxophones with Marijane Brown, Carol Keeslie, Nancy Cole and Elisabeth Waldron, and also a waltz number of about twelve of our band members. There will be two solo numbers, the first featuring Claire Berry, clarinet, the second with Mary Ellen Willard, flute. Both will be accompanied by Lorenda Freeman. The program will end with the band and twirlers, Lorenda Freeman, Louise Lincoln and Patty McMillin.

The program will begin promptly at 8 p. m., and it should finish about 9 p. m., or shortly thereafter Mr Marcuse, Music Supervisor, has been greatly assisted by the classroom teachers, who taught all the details and offered valuable suggestions and have shown the utmost cooperation. A word of thanks is due to them for their fine work. The public is cordially invited to attend this concert.

Your Washington Report

Congressman
ROBERT HALE

Back to Work Congress has rolled up its sleeves and is back to work this week upon its return from the Easter recess.

A big job lies ahead if President Eisenhower's legislative program is to be fulfilled. The President made 99 requests for legislative action in January, and very few of them have reached the floor of the House up to now.

Many of his major requests are still mired down in committees. These include federal aid for school construction, increase in postal rates, statehood for Hawaii and Alaska, depressed areas assistance, and civil rights guarantees.

The Democrats control Congress and its committees, so the party will have some explaining to do if it does not expedite this legislation in the remaining months of this session.

Postal Rates—As I noted, an increase of postal rates is high on the President's program. The purpose would be to place the Post Office Department on a self-sustaining basis. The Department has operated at an average deficit of $445 million in the last 10 years. This money comes from all the taxpayers, rather than from just those who use the mails.

It seems logical that the postage rate should be sufficient to cover the cost of operation. Yet while costs have skyrocketed since the depression days, postage has remained the same.

Many foreign countries including Great Britain, Sweden, Spain, Finland, Denmark and others consistently operate at a profit. But of these countries, all but Great Britain have a postage rate higher than ours.

The British rate is the equivalent in British currency of 2.8 cents for domestic mail, and the country reported a $133 million surplus in 1953. The British are able to operate so cheaply mainly because the nation is so small and distances so short. Of course all the Western European countries are more densely populated than this country. Most of them get more frequent mail deliveries than we are accustomed to here. Operating costs are high in a country like our own. Unless postage rates are increased to cover expenses, the taxpayers are going to have to foot the bill.

Billboard Control — Chairman George Fallon of the House Subcommittee on Public Roads has informed me that his group is holding up action on my anti-billboard legislation until Senate Public Work Committee concludes consideration of its billboard measures.

The Senate Group is reported to be working on a compromise plan to increase the allotment of Federal funds by three-quarters of one per cent to states agreeing to control billboards.

This proposal may be more palatable to the outdoor advertising interests, but it would not effectively control billboards on our future 41,000-mile interstate highway system.

Such a minor incentive simply would not be enough to prompt the states to pass anti-billboard legislation. The influence of the outdoor advertising lobby on state legislatures to pass anti-billboard legislation. The influence of the outdoor advertising lobby on state legislatures has been evidenced time and time again. It will take stern federal action to keep the billboards off our interstate roads.

Beauty, as well as truth, is eternal; but the beauty of material things passes away, fading and fleeting as mortal belief.

SOIL-CEMENT STREET

land cement and water, compacted to high density. As the cement hydrates, the mixture hardens in that state and therefore does not consolidate further under traffic, or rut or "shove" during spring thaws. Among its outstanding advantages over other low-first-cost paving materials are the facts that selective gravels do not have to be used, thus eliminating processing and long and costly hauls; and, because of the bond provided by the cement it has the capacity to bridge over local weak subgrades.

In the Tyler Street construction, a six-inch pavement was produced by scarifying three inches of the existing street material, hauling in three additional inches of pit-run gravel, and mixing it with about 10 per cent of cement, by volume. Tests of the Tyler Street soil made at the University of Maine Soils Laboratory had established that about 8 per cent cement would be adequate and Town Manager Roxelle employed 10 per cent as a double-guarantee of the best possible result.

The Bethel road department, after shaping the street for crown and grade, laid out 300 bags of cement at measured intervals early Tuesday morning on top of the pulverized soil. Hand-raking and a wire-fence drag spread the cement evenly. A pulvi-mixer then "wet-mixed" the material.

First compaction was via a sheepsfoot roller, used because this type of roller compacts from the bottom up and gives the desired high-density compaction throughout. The town's heavy steel roller completed this phase of the operation. A broom-drag was then hauled over the surface to remove any minute irregularities that might have escaped the steel roller.

A "curing" coat of oil was applied to prevent too rapid hydration. Application of a bituminous wearing-course, one to two inches, dependent upon upon the traffic-flow, completes the soil-cement project.

Among the many who watched Tuesday's procedure, the question most frequently asked was how a rainstorm would affect the processing. The fact is that in constructing a soil-cement project water is applied in a proportion equal to between one and one and a half inches of rain. Only in event of a heavy downpour would it be necessary to postpone the work.

In about 95 per cent of all cases, the old road material already in place may be used in its entirety for the soil-cement pavement. On the Tyler Street project, between one and two inches of tar that had been applied to the old street surface was pulverized with the other material.

During the Tyler street operation, the Portland Cement Association's Paving Engineer, Jerry G Haynes, was on hand to serve the town officials in an advisory capacity.

FRANK H. BYRAM

He served as high school principal at Brownfield, Cornish, North Berwick and Livermore Falls. He was superintendent of schools in the following unions: Bethel, Gilead, Greenwood and Mason; Freeport, Yarmouth, and Pownal; Durham, Webster, Bowdoin and Lisbon Falls. Mr Byram retired from school work in 1943 and moved to Bridgton in 1945.

competition, sold fuel at less than his cost including overhead expenses, and Rep Addison C Saunders' (D-Bethel) bill to prohibit gasoline suppliers from retail sale of "gas" or other petroleum products, were all frowned upon by the Committee.

Bomb Hoax. The recommendation of the Judiciary Committee is that a false report of a bomb in a public place should be a felony, punishable with a $1,000 fine or up to five years in prison. Prompted by a series of false bomb scares in Maine, Rep Richard H Broderick's (D-Portland) measure won approval. The favorable report was tabled in the House by Rep Alfred J Smith, Sr. (D-Portland).

Bicycles. The House accepted a favorable report from the Legal Affairs Committee on the redraft of a bill from Rep Percy K Hanson (R-Gardiner) which intends to regulate bicycle riding. While the original measure would have made improper riding a misdemeanor, the new draft limits the criminal provisions to riders 17 or older and to parents who permit their children to ride improperly. The bill has the following requirements: Use of the right-hand side of the highway; riding only astride a regular attached seat; restricting each bicycle to one rider unless it has multiple seats; forbidding hitching a tow from a moving vehicle; and requiring headlamp and rear reflector for night riding.

Measures Signed. Among bills and resolves getting the governor's signature this week were the following: From Rep. Benjamin A Turner (R-Auburn), a bill making owners of dogs liable to a fine up to $100 if their animals kill or injure livestock or poultry, from Rep Casper Tevanian (D-Portland), a resolve extending to the Eastern Orthodox Church the same recognition given other major faiths; from Rep William L Kinch (D-Livermore Falls), a bill increasing to $20,000 the maximum jury award in civil actions resulting from injuries causing death; from Rep Harry R Williams (R-Hodgdon), a bill authorizing the forestry commissioner to grant mining rights on state owned lands.

Teachers' Bonus. Rep Francis J Rowe's (D-Madawaska) plan to spend $2,800,000 in each of the two coming fiscal years to pay some $400 each to 7,000 Maine teachers, with the money coming from a severance tax on pulpwood and lumber, was opposed 9-1 by the Education Committee. The revenue measure accompanying the bonus bill was unreported when the Committee registered a majority vote against the bonus proposal. Rep Thomas L Maynard (D-Portland) was the lone supporter of Rowe, a teacher. In Rowe's absence, Maynard tabled the bill.

With only Chairman Seth Low (R-Knox) in opposition, the same Committee voted support of Rep Jesse P Fuller's (R-South Portland) bill increasing from $1,350 to $2,250 the state contribution to school union superintendents' salaries. The House accepted the favorable report.

Highways Allocation. Noting that there would be more than enough money to pay the state police from general funds, should the sales tax be raised to three percent and the Jacobs education bill rejected, Sen William S Silsby (R-Hancock) tabled the general highways allocation bill with the statement: "I think we ought to take the State Police out of it." The measure provides for some $[illegible] in the biennium, with half of the cost of the State Police coming out of the General Fund. At present that Fund contributes only 10 percent, with the other 90 coming from highway money.

Winter Road Closing. The Senate listened to but did not support the argument of Sen William S Silsby (R-Hancock) against a bill permitting the closing of roads in unorganized territory in the winter months, which the Chairman of the Highway Committee Sen Clarence W Parker (R-Piscataquis) said was intended primarily to save plowing dead-end roads having no residents on them. Silsby attempted indefinite postponement, arguing that the bill included such highways as the "air line" between Bangor and Calais. He objected, he said, to allowing county commissioners to act as judge and jury on their own petitions for road closing. Failing to obtain indefinite postponement, Sen Silsby tabled the measure for preparation of an amendment exempting through roads.

A bill changing the season for deer hunting in certain counties was postponed indefinitely by a 67-59 vote. After protracted debate and a minor "filibuster" by Rep Louis Jalbert (D-Lewiston) a long debate on apprentice lobster fishing licenses was indefinitely postponed. A majority ought-to-pass vote of the Sea and Shore Fisheries Committee increasing the minimum legal length of lobsters by one-sixteenth of an inch was accepted.

THE TVA BOYS ARE WARY

It is frequently argued, and the argument is supported with complex statistics, that TVA pays its own way, returns money to the government, and so is a national asset.

That argument does not impress E. C. Van Curon, of the Harlan, Kentucky, Enterprise. He says: "Thick headed as I am, I can't see why it wouldn't be easy for TVA to pay its own way without a congressional appropriation if it is a profit making and self-supporting agency.... I still argue that part of my tax money goes to support TVA so that the favored citizens of the TVA area receive low electric rates at my expense....

"The TVA boys are very wary never to mention anything about federal income taxes that private business must pay. The propagandists always howl so loud about other phases of their great good for the people that they hope no one ever notices that no federal taxes are paid.

"Pound for pound, put TVA up against private power industry on the same footing of taxes and other costs, and TVA is operating in the red."

If TVA's partisans are honest in their claims, they wouldn't object to a law putting the agency on the same basis of operation as a private enterprise doing a comparable business — including all taxes, interest, and all other costs. How about it, friends of TVA?

Girls' A. A. Banquet

On Wednesday of this week, May 1, the Girls' Athletic Association under the director of the Girls Athletic Director, Miss Alice Duffy and A. A. President, Miss Catherine Carver, will hold the first A. A. dinner banquet, similar to the Lettermen's Banquet for boys, in the Gehring Hall Dining Room at 6:30 p. m. This banquet is for all the girls who have accumulated 50 points or more through the point system awarding so many points for each sport within their years at Gould.

Following the steak dinner, the guest speaker of the evening will be Miss Barbara Newman, who is affiliated with the Physical Education Department at the University of New Hampshire. Miss Newman, as many may remember, was the girls' physical education director at Gould several years ago. Throughout the evening, the installation of new officers and sports managers will be made in a small ceremony presided over by the A. A's present officers. Also letters for those who have earned 80 points and numerals for those who have earned 50 points will be awarded by the A. A. as part of the evening affair. Many thanks go to the A. A. and the physical education department for a banquet which is hoped will become a tradition of the Girls' A. A.!

Senior Week-End

This year, for the first time, the Senior Class has devoted their efforts to promoting a senior week-end. Starting Friday night at 8:00 with an annual Senior Play, "Onions in the Stew," to be followed on Saturday with a Field Day for all and Saturday night the Senior Hop. Field Day begins at 9:30 a. m. with a Round Robin tennis tournament with participants from all classes. Saturday at 1:30 races are to be held for class competition followed by a shoe scramble which everyone is to enter into—the lucky owner of the shoe grabbed by a girl is treated to a glass of cold lemonade sold by the seniors.

At 3:00 p. m. the first round of the softball championship will be played off—the final round to take place at 3:45; announcement of winners will be made Saturday night.

Mr Myers, Mrs Goggin, and a very helpful crew are throwing a real old-fashioned clam-bake with seaweed and all which will precede the dance starting at 8:00 p. m. The dance Saturday night features such prominent stars as Ann Douglass, Kenny and Teddy with their guitars, the popular jazz band and many others. All are welcome to attend the dance and have lots of fun. The seniors hope this week-end will become part of the Gould spring-time tradition so please everyone, help to make it a week-end of fun and laughter.

It will be a busy week for Gould baseball teams as the varsity and junior varsity teams play two games each. The varsity will entertain South Paris on May 2 and Fryeburg Academy on May 7, both are home games starting at 3:30. The J.V.'s will play Hebron Academy J.V.'s here on Friday, May 3, and the South Paris J.V.'s here on Monday, May 6.

CHANGES AT BRIDGTON

A drastic change is taking place on Upper Depot Street near the center of the town of Bridgton. From Stevens Brook near the Memorial High School Building to a point almost in Post Office Square, the street is being cleared of buildings in readiness for the new armory to be erected some time this year by the United States Government.

One of the first buildings to go has been the home of Lopeman-Potts Post, American Legion. Negotiations with the government were completed about a month ago and the building is now being razed by private parties. This building has been the home of Lopeman-Potts Post for several years, having been presented to the Post by the late Percy Chandler, a World War I veteran and a member of the Post.

Next in line and almost on the grounds of Legion property is the home of Highland Grange, which must also make way for modern progress. Then comes a large storage space used by Central Maine Power Company for storing light poles. Following this will be the demolition of a machine shop owned and operated by Maurice Keen.

The government purchase of land takes in everything on the west side of Upper Depot Street from Stevens Brook near the high school to a point bounding on the Brookside Building parking lot. Details of the style and construction of the armory to be built are not known by this writer at the present time.

Just what the two organizations concerned will do about a meeting place has not yet been decided.

MUSIC APPRECIATION GROUP

The Music Appreciation Group of Bethel is ending its fourth year under the direction of Walter Marrone It has conducted two music appreciation courses and a concert series yearly

Through Mr Marrone's contacts at the Boston Conservatory of Music, Bethel has been fortunate in obtaining talented musicians on their way up in the music world. A case in point is McHenry Boatwright now way beyond the Music Group's means, but who several years ago gave us two concerts.

The Group needs the continued financial backing of Bethel citizens and Gould Academy in order to continue the concert series One hundred season tickets must be sold in order to undertake this project.

Next fall tentative plans have been made for a dual concert by Mr and Mrs William Thomas Flavin. The Lewiston Sun recently wrote an article on Mr Flavin, an outstanding singer elected to sing on the Metropolitan Audition of the Air on the ABC network. He has given concerts throughout New England, but never in his home state of Maine. He is from West Paris and is married to an Oregonian who excels on the cello.

We hope for your continued support in our endeavor to bring good music to Bethel
